Limerick Recruits to East India Company Service to 1832.

With appendix of ships' departures from England and arrivals in India.

©Brian Hodkinson 2019

The following list is compiled from the embarkation lists L/MIL/9/85 -102 in the India Office Records at the British Library. These have been filmed by the Church of the Latter Day Saints, as LDS1835456-58, 1835691 and 1866880 which were made available to the compiler at the Church's Family History Centre in Dooradoyle, Limerick. In the records the ships are listed in chronological order of sailing, whether to Calcutta in Bengal, Bombay or Madras (modern Kolkata, Mumbai and Chennai), so all three presidencies are combined together in the one list, together with St Helena, which was a company owned staging post in the South Atlantic to 1834. Between 1685 and 1825 the EIC also had a garrison at Bencoolen on the west coast of Sumatra, which for a period 1760-85 formed a presidency in its own right. The EIC also had its own navy based in Bombay, just one man James Dumphy is known to have enlisted.

The embarkation lists change somewhat in format over time. 1760-74 the place of origin is not given; but starts in 1775. 1789-94 the list just has county and gives the height of the recruit. Between 1794 -96 the height is dropped. There does not seem to be any record for 1797-1800. From 1800 to 1810, sadly there are just lists of names and ship, with no indication as to the home county of the soldiers. For an unknown reason, place of enlistment which had not been recorded from 1810 at least suddenly appears again half way through the listing of the 1824 sailing of The Thomas Coutts.

The level of information varies from book to book; in some cases there is no enlistment date, or it is stated that the date is unknown; in these cases I have put in a suggested date with a ? after. Given the propensity of the EIC to rush its recruits on board as soon as possible to prevent desertion I have used the sailing date from the Thames minus two months to decide the year; i.e. if a ship sails in February then a soldier is deemed to have been recruited the previous year. Obviously this is open to correction, but it is the only way to get an idea of yearly recruitment and is better than leaving out the unknown.

From 1831 the company introduced books of soldiers' services for each presidency which continue through to 1860 when the Company's armies were disbanded. These service books start with those currently serving, or with Company connections, in 1831, so some names appear in both listings. 2,000+ Limerick names have been abstracted by the present compiler from the service books and they are available online as three separate files, one for each presidency, together with a file of soldiers returned to England after service, see https://www.limerick.ie/research-aids-people-and-places St. Helena names are continued in this current list to 1834, because they do not appear in the presidency lists.

Unless stated in the remarks column all recruits were privates/gunners at embarkation. Some recruits were given acting status e.g. sergeant, corporal, for the journey out but seem to have reverted to private/gunner on arrival.

1) Name. * Denotes a name that also appears in the post 1830 listings. Where the detail differs, smaller font text in brackets is the post 1830 information. #denotes name appears in list of soldiers returned to England.
2) Year of Attestation where given. N.B. day and month omitted here. For the 18th century the date is not given, however it is possible to use ships' records for the date of sailing and arrival. Where a ? is placed after date then it is a suggested year, see above for criteria used. on board as fast as possible.
4) Home parish. Co. Limerick is taken as read. Anomalies occur in border areas.
5) Former occupation.
6) Place of enlistment, where given. Some records state "Town", which I assume means London.
7) Ship; N.B. there is a list of ships with their destination and date of sailing and arrival (where given) as an appendix to this list.
8) Year of arrival.
9) Presidency; Be Bengal, Bo Bombay, M Madras, StH St. Helena, Ben Bencoolen. Nd no stated destination
10) Remarks, includes rank other than private/gunner and service; wife's name
Abbreviations; D. Died; Disch. Discharged; A artillery; HA Horse Artillery; I infantry; E Engineers; Act. Acting; S Sergeant; C Corporal; snr senior; TML Town Major's List; W wife; nd no date/destination entered, depending on columns; QMS Quarter Master Sergeant; P. Charlotte of Wales Princess Charlotte.
NB. Where information is unclear (e.g. torn left page, shadow down fold obscuring initial letters etc.) it is marked with ?

Ships.

This is a list of the ships that carried Limerick men; there are many other ships that did not.

In the following list the entries in black are details taken from the embarkation books. Sometimes all the detail is supplied, other times arrival date or destination, or both, is absent. The dates of departure in black are assumed to be the date of leaving the Thames. Destinations in black are as given in the list, but it should be borne in mind that ships to Bengal often stopped en route at Madras. The details in red are taken from the sailing records on the Kew Archives Discovery site. Departure dates in red are from the last port to which the ship called before leaving English waters (e.g. from Plymouth) so the date could, depending on the weather, be days or weeks after the ship left the Thames; e.g The Asia's 1820 voyage departed 7th Jan., but from England 2nd Feb and the Bombay 1816 departure was on the 20th Dec., but from England 7th Jan 1817.

Between 1791-1810 the dates are embarkation dates, which could be several weeks before sailing. It seems to have been policy to get the recruits on board as soon as possible after recruitment to avoid desertions. In some cases the men were put on board one ship and then transferred to another and even to a third, which may have changed their ultimate destination. On one occasion at least the Royal Navy seems to have come on board and press ganged soldiers into the navy.

To access sailing records go to https://discovery.nationalarchives.gov.uk/browse/r/h/937f93cc-ccf5-4c31-951c-af92be35ea66. The name of the ship plus the word India in the "search catalogue" will bring up a series of documents related to the voyages; usually one of them (often the first) contains a history of the voyages.

[14] The Ship's record does not include Bengal; the date given is for Madras.
[15] Disappeared after leaving Madras for Benkulen; date given is departure date from Madras
[16] The listed 1796/7 voyage started well into 1797 because the ship was only launched in 1797.
[17] The destination in the embarkation list is Bengal but it actually went to Madras and China; date for Madras given.

[18] The voyage details are not given.
[19] There does not seem to be a surviving log for this ship in Kew Archives.
[20] Lost in the Bengal River 10th April 1785. A Spanish ship captured by the Royal Navy in 1780 and sold to become an "extra" ship of the EIC, en route to India it was captured by the French but retaken by the RN,
[21] In the Discovery catalogue ships list, it appears that some of the text regarding 1829 sailings on is absent.

[24] According to the records in Kew, this ship was blown up at Diamond Harbour Bengal in Dec 1785. The ship took on a cargo of saltpetre and a ships boy accidentally set it on fire and it exploded. For a description of what happened see, Universal Magazine of Knowledge and Pleasure, Vol 78-9, May 1786, p. 275.
[25] This ship sailed first to Bombay where it arrived 6th September; no indication why it then took 6 months to get to Madras
[26] William Hamilton was taken of the Phoenix and became a sailor on the Albion.

Notes.

1) The photographer skipped p 82-6 of the book for 1819

2) The listing for Royal George 1822 is marked as incomplete and space is left to be filled out.

[30] The two Limerick men on board were transferred to the General Eliot
